Equality Means, everyone in your setting has equal opportunities regardless of their abilities, background or lifestyle

Diversity means, appreciating the differences between children/adults and treating people's values, beliefs, cultures and lifestyles with respect.

Breakaway aims to provide a climate that is committed to equal opportunities and anti-discriminatory practice, eliminating unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation and promoting good relations both for children and staff. Ensuring that every child is included and supported regardless of gender, class, family status, disability, ethnic origin, culture, religion or belief.

We work within the Equality Act 2010 which sits alongside the requirements in the Children and Families Act 2014.

- We provide a secure and accessible environment in which all children can grow to reach their full potential, knowing that they are valued
- Inclusion runs through all of the activities we provide both within and outside of Breakaway.

Policy

At Breakaway, we are committed to providing a fully inclusive service that meets the diverse needs of all children who utilize our facilities. We ensure that our premises, equipment, and resources are accessible and suitable for children with disabilities, creating an environment where every child can thrive.

As part of Slough Borough Council, we have access to a range of services that can provide document translations into other languages, Braille, and audio formats, as well as interpreters to attend meetings and reviews when necessary.

We recognize that children grow up in diverse family structures, which may include two parents, a single parent, or parents of the same sex. Some children have strong connections with extended family members such as grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins, while others may be more isolated, with only their immediate family unit. Additionally, some children come from families facing severe hardship and deprivation, and they may have encountered discrimination based on ethnicity, language, religion or beliefs, gender, or impairment.

These factors can significantly impact a child's wellbeing, learning, and attainment. It is crucial for staff to be aware of these influences and consider them when working with the children to ensure their individual needs are met.

At Breakaway we promote and value diversity and difference by:-

- Information provided by Breakaway i.e. newsletters, questionnaires, This is Me (Care Plan), risk assessments, Breakaway children's guide and other documents are provided in a child friendly format.
- Having different communication methods:
 - Makaton
 - PECS

Keeping staff up to date with these through regular supervision and training.

Enable all children to contribute to their care planning and to help them make choices for them to be heard.

- Having a religious board which has child friendly information on many religious festivals/celebrations from around the world on display as and when they occur.
